HEAR AN UPDATE ON THE FAIRGROUNDS FROM COUNTY EXECUTIVE RANDY PORTER

(SEE ATTACHED)
Report To County Commission on Hyder Burkes

I have met with Tennessee Tech and discussed the possibility of partnering to move our Fairgrounds to Hyder Burkes. After several long discussions, we came to the conclusion there are too many hurdles to try and jump.

Here is a list of the hurdles:

1. No Infrastructure. The property is not in the City limits, so it has no sewer. The facility is on a large septic system with an approx. 40,000 gallon tank and 4,000 feet of field line which covers a large part of the land to the front and side of the property.

2. Two Lane Road – Gainesboro Grade is only two lanes and would need to be expanded to three in front of the property. The process to do so with TDOT would be lengthy and costly.

3. Requires State Building Commission approval – this would be a very long and tedious process.

4. Building Costs would be expensive – any building on the site would have to meet State codes and building policies which would increase the cost by at least 30%.

5. No County Control – since the property is State, even though the County would be constructing buildings and facilities on the property, the State would retain control.

6. Limited Access Road – the existing property only has one entrance. Another entrance/exit would have to be constructed.

7. Existing Property use – the property is already being used for cattle and crops.

After taking an in-depth look at this option, I recommend we put this on the back burner for now and look for other options, the primary one being the purchase of land.

ANNOUNCEMENTS AND STATEMENTS:

EMPLOYEE OF THE MONTH (None)

CITIZEN OF THE MONTH: DRUCILLA RAY
(SEE ATTACHED)
Beloved nutrition teacher to hang up her apron

By MEGAN TROTTER
HERALD-CITIZEN STAFF

At the end of this month, a Monterey woman who has spent 25 years teaching the community to cook will be hanging up her apron. Drucilla Ray, program assistant with Tennessee Nutrition and Consumer Education Program (TNCEP) will retire from her position with the University of Tennessee Extension Office—however, she will still be contributing her weekly cooking column to the Herald-Citizen.

"I keep getting people asking me if I'm retiring from the column too, but I'm not," Ray said. "I plan to keep sharing my recipes, even though I'm retired."

Ray first started writing a newspaper column in Monterey in 1994, where she wrote about recipes and household hints. It was called "Drucilla's Little Helpers." When that newspaper went out of business, the then-editor of the Herald-Citizen, Charles Denning, asked her to start writing for the Putnam County paper in 1996. She has contributed a weekly cooking column ever since. Her work with food goes back further than that, though. She started working in nutrition in Putnam County in 1989. When the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) opened in Overton, Fentress and Scott Counties, she moved locations. In 2004, the program was done away with, and Ray moved to working at Tennessee Tech in the Child Development Lab, then on to the Headstart program. In 2008, she returned to work in Putnam County with the TNCEP program.

"TNCEP was a little different from EFNEP," she said. "For example, in EFNEP, we went into the people's homes to help them one-on-one, but now it's a little dangerous to do that."

Since then, she has spent her time doing group meetings with children and adults to teach them basic nutrition and how to cook. The children in particular are a joy to teach, she says. She teaches pre-K, kindergartners, third and fourth graders and some high school. When she teaches, she doesn't just read information out of a book. She brings along plenty of hands-on learning activities and visual aids to help her students remember her lessons. One of the popular props is a large plush doll with plush removable organs that Ray shows to the children as she tells them what each piece is for. She also gets her students involved in the kitchen by letting them help create simple recipes.

"I'm a visual learner. I learn by doing things," Ray said. "I think the kids enjoy that too. Making the food together is the thing that they remember."

Ray learned to cook from both of her parents. Her mother was a school cook and her father worked for Tennessee Central Railroad. He was such a good cook that he was put in charge of making breakfast, lunch and dinner when he and his fellow workers had to make overnight trips for their jobs.

"He liked it, since he didn't have to go out and work on the railroad when he was cooking," Ray said.

Ray's official last day will be Sept. 30, when she will say goodbye to coworkers she has come to know and love over the years.

"I'm definitely going to miss everyone. When you work with people for so long, they become like family," she said. "I'm probably going to go through withdrawals."

"In a few weeks they'll probably find me sitting on the doorstep of the extension office with a pie," she added with a laugh.
